SUBLESOUS BANKING SMUT UP SMS WASHINGTON WASTONAL

It Even Moves a Hardened Bank Exa Wrecked American Loan and Trust, the Chief Kite-Ayer Through the Washington We Ower Them About 800,000 Aploco, and he Also Dealt with the Third No. tional-Domands by Receiver Simmons on Him and on Wallace C. Andrews.

The developments in the affairs of the Washington National Bank at 1 Broadway yesterday showed that the impairment of the capital would amount to about $150,000. It was learned that President Sherman had been alto John S. Silver of the Boreal building. Me Bilver was a director of the wrecked American Losn and Trust Company, and on Monday last Receiver J. Edward Simmons sent him a peremptory notice insisting upon the repayment of the money Mr. Silver had borrowed from that company. At the same time Mr. Simmons sent a similar notice to Wallace C. Andrews. President of the New York Steam Company, and also a director of the American Loan and Trust Company, Mr. Simmons would not talk vesterday about this feature of the case, and Mr. Silver was invisible. It is not believed that Mr. Andrews had any loans from the Washington National Bank, but Mr. Tilghman, the managing director in the Washington Bank, says that Mr. Silver obtained loans amounting to nearly $60,000 on the filmsiest collateral. It should be said here that Mr Bilver's loans from the American Loan and Trust Company are for nearly the same amount, and that they have not been satisfied. Mr. Silver lives at 135 West Seventy-sixth street. His father-in-law said last night that Silver had not been at home since Sunday, and was in the country somewhere, perhaps at his father's house in Stonington.

President Sherman was not at the Washington Bank yesterday, and his physician thinks he ought to remain at home until he is well. Mr. Sherman, It was said down town, has occasionally resorted to the use of a drug which pasettled his judgment. Among the enrious loans made by him was one of $10,000 on the stock of the Captain Norton Life Boat Construction Company. Capt. Norton and his boat, it is supposed, have been lost at sea. To Mr. Silver loans were made of $42,000 on securities, which were worth in the neighborhood of $6,000. Mr. Silver at the time was small depositor in the bank. His balance was less than $100, but Silver, as the friend of Mr. Sherman navariably obtained accommodation. Mr. Tighman, the director who has charge of the bank's affairs since the trouble came to the surface, said that the paying teller of the bank had certified Silver's check on one occasion for $11,500, and on another occasion another check for $25,000 against Silver's deposit of uncertified checks on the Third National Bank. When the paying teller was questioned at to his authority to give Mr. Silver such credit, he said, according to Mr. Tighman hat hat he had acted under the advice of Precident Sherman. Mr. Tighman says that he catechised President Sherman in reference to these matters, and that Mr. Sherman was angry about it. After that Mr. Sherman asked Mr. Tighman not to bring the matter before the Board of Preciders. Mr. Tighman had before the directors. Mr. Tighman laid before the directors another plan of Mr. Silver's for obtaining money on collateral from the bank. One of these schemes was to deposit drafts on out-of-town banks, to get certified checks or money on them, and then hang up the collection. This is as if a man should hand another the aneck for $25,000 on Monday, say, and ask him not to send it in for collection until Saturday. Mr. Tilghman says that these tansactions of Mr. Silver were invariably on Western banks, and especially with financial institutions in Colorado. From what Mr. Tilghman says it would appear that the Colorado banks, or, to speak more specifically, the banking institutions of Colorado Springs were felly acquainted with Silver's methods. Wrills these drafts were hung up, Silver had the use of the money, sometimes it was said for nearly three months, and the Western banks and the Colorado institutiona did not nearly three months, and the Western banks and the Colorado institut is supposed, have been lost at sea. To Mr. John B. Silver's checks, deposited that he

John B. Silver's checks, deposited that he might draw against them, were mostly uncertified checks on the Third National Bank. Mr. Jighman says that President Sherman tells in that he has collaieral for all the loans that Mr. Silver had from the bank. Mr. Tilghman while accepting this statemen; is skeptical concerning the value of the collateral. Mr. Silver was a member of the firm of Surna. Silver & Co., with outces in the Koreel building. His brother, Willis bilver, said that John S. was segared in the railway supply business as manufacturer and agent, and that he has certain enterprises which he hopes to float in England. It appears that engaged in the railway supply business as manufacturer and agent, and that he has certain enterprises which he hopes to float in England, it appears that John S. is interested in a great many enterprises, none of which is very well known in financial circles. His brother Willis admitted that he was a mighty queer fellow. President Sherman says that he has known Mr. Sliver ever si ce he was a boy, He believes that Silver's inteletedness to the bank amounts to about $60.0 Giver's lawyer. A. B. Bright, says he believes that every obligation will be met. Burns, Silver & to, now a corporation, have offices also in Bridgeport.

An interesting feature of the whole trouble is that Cashier Granger of the bank and Robert L. Cutting and others interested in the fortunes of the bank are either closely associated with the firm of Tilghman, Rowland & Co., or tays had business dealings with that firm. The frie 4s or Mr. Sherman said that Mr. Lighman has for months, or at least since the bane. Organized, been a sumbling block in the nath of Mr. Sherman. They add that he has meddled with all the loans that Mr. Sherman granted, and that in other ways his opposition has done much to destroy confidence in the bank. But, notwithstanding these statements, Bank Examiner Hepburn canno for the life of him understand how Mr. Sherman came to loan $150.000 of the bank's capital on collateral which a Bowery pawnshop would refuse.

The National Bank Examiner, Mr. Hepburn, said as done much to the Washington National Bank, where we made an informal examination of all the assets of the bank on account of losses upon its loans and investments to the amount of $75,000. This amount Mr. Tilghman and Mr. Granger proposed on Rouday to make good. We were assured by the cashier of the bank on the bank on the count of losses upon its loans and investments to the amount of $75,000. This amount Mr. Tilghman and Mr. Granger proposed on landed only legitimate collections. The bending question was whether it was safe for the Washington National Bank, In vi ing question was whether it was safe for the gallatin Bank to continue to clear for the washington National Bank. In view of the fortheoming 375,000 from Mr. Tilghman, and Mr. Granger. Mr. Tappen thought that it was, and the matter was allowed to stand over awaiting developments. Further examination disclosed the fact that there was alarge loss in the item 'due from banks'. If there is any crookedness found in the administration of a bank it is generally found in this very column, which speaks of the account 'due from banks.' It is something that we always verify in making examinations by taking a list of the amounts claimed to be due from any particular bank and verifying the amount by correspondence with each hank. It will be necessary to do that row before we can know certainly the loss which this bank will sustain through that term.

that row before we can know certainly the loss which this bank will sustain through that item.

"The Washington National Bank received out-of-town collections sent them forward to the place where payable and marked them. No protest and instructed the correspondents to hold them subject to the orders of the Washington National. At the same time they certify the checks of their depositors against these collections thus received and sent forward, and under such instructions notice of payment is the only notice which the bank could receive. All these checks, not paid, stood to the credit of depositors held in various places from Bridgeport to Denier. Items of this account were allowed to stand nearly two months. On Naturday all these items appear upor, the books as legitimate items due from banks. The amount of these items appear, though, of the amounts until verified by the correspondents of the bank. I have written to each bank over the signature of the Compitoller, asking them to write up the accounts current and return the same to ms.

There will be an apparent loss from various sources of $14.248.73. This of course is astimated, but it will hardly fall short of that amount. This would still leave the stockholders entitled to a dividend of 50 percent. However that may be I think it sais to asy that the depositors will be paid in full. In any event pader the National Banking law the stockholders are liable to an assessment equal to the amount of their stock which will thus contribute $300.000 if necessary to protect the public.

"No one thing alls the bank, but everything."

tribute $500.000 if necessary to protect the public.

Mo one thing alls the bank, but everything. I nadequate security for loans to parties of potorious impecunicelty, and utter disregard for the most ordinary business and banking principles, tharacterized the management throughout. To say that receiving checks and certifying against them as above noted violates every principle of business and banking, does not approximately do the matter justice. This matter was unknown to the Board of Directors, was unknown even to the cashier of the bank, who stated in good faith on Saturday that the 'items due from banks' represented straight legitimate collections, which he supposed to be the case.

"The report to the Comptroller will be made to-merrow, and he will probably presently any dealing with this bank, as I have been requested to do."

Paying Teller Foster denies absolutely that he certified checks for Silver's loans at the request of President Sharman. He does not recall any such certifications.

Mr. Silmmons President of the Fourth National and receiver of the American Loan and Trust Company, said that it was true that Mr. Silver had obtained loans from the American Loan and Trust Company, and that it was true that Company, and the New York Steam Company, had dealings with the Washington National Bank was not confirmed. It is known. National Bank was not confirmed. It is known. In Carbo's saloon at 28 Boyden street at the time were Joseph Ahern and Da vid Kelly. They saw Carbo throw the homeless old man out of the door. Jones, as he was called, spent nine cents for three glasses of beer and then tried to cell Carbo two shirts which he had in a bundle. Carbo refused to buy them and the oid man went out. He returned three times and pressed Carbo to buy. The Italian finally lost his temper, grasped Jones by the throat and striking him a heavy blow in the face threw him out of the saloon. The oid man fell heavily, and the back of his head struck the flagging. He got up, staggered a few feet, and then fell senseless. You have killed him, said Ahern to Carbo, and the latter replied, "Oh, no, he is only drunk."

They let him lie on the walk for an hour when Carbo became frightened and the three men carried him back into the saloon. After another hour he walk and the police were notified. Ahern says Carbo offered him sl0 to keep quiet about the matter, and later, when he heard that Jones was dead, he raised the offer to $25.

A fund of $7,500 had been raised for a statue, and Turini claimed that Dr. Shrady, acting for his associates, engaged him on March 21, 1880, to make a clay model, eight feet in height. He completed the work, and, alter keeping it some time, the doctors refused to accept it. He spent several months at the work and expended $250. He sued for $1,000. The defence was that Turini was a competitor for the work and undertook the model, knowing that there was to be a competition. They rejected his model. Drs. ## MR. COE'S FIRST SNAG.

An Old Traveller, He Finds Our Ordinance He stood in front of the Times building early yesterday morning giving out tracts. He was not handsome, but presented a fair appearance in his long cape overcoat, scrupulously clean linen, and flaring red necktie. The throng of people going from the bridge entrance down town were rapidly reducing his stock, when one of Commissioner Beattle's paper chasers happened along.

Instead of taking a tract the peliceman took the man, and about an hour later had him in the Tombs Police Court on a charge of giving out handbills and also for blocking the street. Well," said Justice Taintor, "what have you got to say?"

"You must excuse me, sir," replied the prisoner, "but I really don't know what you're saying. I am only a humble servant of the Lord, and, although deaf, am trying to help turn aside the tide of sin which is overflowing this great metropolis. I am not a native of your city, but just the same am going to reform it. It needs reforming badly, now doesn't it. Judge?"

"Maybe it does." replied the Justice; "but what were you blocking up the street for?"

"Because, sir. I do not believe in hiding the shining light of the Gospel under a bushel basket. Let it shine, I say; let it shine. My pame, sir, is John E. Coe, and I'm a native of Meriden. Conn. I have travelled all over this country, from Ban Francisco to Boston, giving out tracts, and never struck a snag before. Even in the wicked city of New Orleans I was not molested. I can't help it if you've a law against doing good. I might have expected it, though, It will now be my effort to get that law repealed. If your Honor has any fine to impose on me please do it quickly, so that I may pay it and be away again. Every moment counts, and sin is rapidly strengthening its loothold."

"Offeer, let this man go," said Justice Taintor, "but warn him that if he comes here again he will be punished."

After leaving the bar the old man wandered about the room distributing his tracts among the prisoners and spectators.

NOT DEAD, BUT ON THE ISLAND. Buried, Whose Was It.

Joseph Oehlers, a saloon keeper of 171 East Eleventh street, called st the Coroners' office yesterday afternoon to tell this story. He said that on Jan. 10 an unknown man was taken to the Chambers Street Hospital suffering from a fracture of the base of the skull received by a fall. He did not regain consciousness and died on the following day, and the body was died on the following day, and the body was sent to the Morgue. A description of the man which appeared in the papers caused Mr. Oehlers to go to the Morgue, where he identified the body as that of Louis Schiele, who boarded at Mr. Oehlers's house. Mr. Oehlers had the body interred the next day in the Lutheran Cemetery.

A few days ago a companion of Schiele called upon Oehlers and said that young Schiele was doing time on the Island. A visit to that place proved that this statement was true. The question of the dead man's identity again arises, and it will be investigated by the Coroner.

Benjamin Hoffman, in her behalf, brought suit against Alexander to recover $10,000 damages. In his answer Alexander denied that he had ever refused to marry her. denied that he had ever refused to marry her, On the contrary, he said he was willing to marry her within thirty days. Yesterday was the thirtieth day, and all arrangements had been made for their marriage. All the parties appeared before Chief Justice Ebrlich in the City Court yesterday to have the marriage performed. There Alexander, after consulting with his@awyer, Adolph Cohen, refused to be a party to the contract. The wedding party separated with some feeling, and the suit will be pressed vigorously.

MANY AINPUL CLERGYMEN.

The Hov, Dr. Stanger Just as Crimina Dr. Mainefort and Heber Newton, The Rev. Dr. I. Newton Stanger of Holy Trinity Church, Harlem, is apparently in the same boat with Dr. Bainsford and the Rev. Mr. Newton, whose introduction of non-Episopalians into their pulpits is to be protested against by some of their olerical brethren. He has invited three non-Episopalians to preach in Holy Trinity Church this week—the Rev. Dr. Clark, Preshviarian, to night: the Rev. Dr. Clark, Preshviarian, to night: the Rev. Dr. Clark, Presbyterian, to-night; the Rev. Dr. Price, Presbyterian, to-night; the fiew, Dr. Price, Presbyterian, to-morrow night, and the Rev. Dr. Elmendorf, Dutch Beformed, on Good Friday night. The canon dealing with the subject forbids clergymen unsanctified by apostolic ordination to "officiate" in Episcopal apostolic ordination to "officiate" in Episcopal churches. Dr. Stanger construes the word quoted to mean taking part in the service, particularly the communion service. His view is that of several other clergymen who were seen. He says that he would never have invited the clergymen named if he had considered his doing so to be a violation of the canons.

The clergymen who are circulating the protest against Drs. Rainsford and Newton manifestly agree with Bishop Cors. who, in the sermon quoted from yesterday, declares it a crime for an Episcopal clergyman to ask an outsider into his pulpit, even if his motives be good. While they are about it, they may as well discipline not only Dr. Stanger, but the Rev. Dr. Van der Water, also of Harlem, who asked, among other non-Episcopalians, Dr. Clark, Presbyterian, and the Rev. Dr. Day, Methodiat, to the opening of St. Andrew's Church, so that the first persons who perhaps presched in the edifice had no right to be there. Severa other clergymen in the city have been guilty of a similar breach of the canons, and a considerable number in the country at large.

THE DRAGON'S THRONE.

Ambassadore in the Processe of the Hwang-it at Peking. No account of the details of the grand diplonatio ceremony at Peking on March 8 has yet been received from China. Upon that day, for the first time in the history of the Celestial Empire, the Ambassadors of foreign powers were permitted to appear in the presence of the Emperor and behold the person of the "Son of Heaven." It has been their custom to transact official business with the peacockfeathered representatives of his Majesty, the Hwang-ti, but no one of them has ever had the privilege of approaching the dragon's throne. For reasons of state, it was decided some time ago to make a change by which Ambassadors of the highest rank, representing their soverigns, might obtain an audience with the Hwang it at the palace in Peking.

The Board of Rites has been very much embarrassed in its efforts to formulate such ceremoples as should be proper for the occasion. The innovation was of the most serious kind, and there was no precedent for the guidance of the High Court of Censors. Every detail of etiquette must accord with rules that are more vigorous and elaborate than those of any other court in the world.

The Board of Rites must have risen to the occasion, for it has been learned that the Ambassadors obtained an audience with the young Emperor on the first Tueeday of this month. The ceremonies were not witnessed by any American reporter, and mankind will have to wait for a trustworthy account of them until the publication of the official despatches of the Ambassadors.

THESE WOMEN WILL BE RICH SOOK A County Sent Town Has SetSed Itee! Upon the Land they Gward.

ALLENTOWN, March 94.—Miss Eatherine Solt of Allentown and Miss Susan Schlutter of Centre Valley, this county, went West together seven years ago to make their own living in a novel and independent way. They were cour-amous and selfireliant, and cherished the idea that if women would assert themselves prop-erly in business enterprises they need not be dependent on any of the male sex, but could enap their fingers in the face of all mankind. They settled in Nebraska, on the site of the present town of Rushville, and, having a little Present town of Rushville, and, having a little hoard of money, each took up a grant of Government land consisting of 160 acres. The nearest settlement then was twenty-five miles away. Each of the young women exested on her quarter section a small hut, and endeavored to live as comfortably as possible until more substantial dwellings could be built.

They tilled the soil as best they could, and by dint of hard and patient aboreach raised small clops by the close of the first year. In the second year a railroad was extended right through their tracts, and in a few months quite a colony of families had settled near by. More settlers followed, and by the end of the fourth year a prosperous little town had sprung up. The county seat was located on their land, and to-day it is a town of 1,000 population, with bright prespects that it will soon be a city.

Aliases Soit and Schiutter own all the most valuable land in the town and thereabouts, and are now realising neat prices for their building lots. They came East a few days ago, and are now visiting their parents and friends in this vicinity. Surprise is expressed by their acquaintances that they did not get married while in the West, but they laughingly reply that they don't have to.

It Will Belight All Up-country Ploherme BIRDEBORO, Pa., March 34.-Sportsmen throughout eastern Pennsylvania are delighted at the announcement that 2,225,000 trout fry will be distributed this spring and summer fry will be distributed this spring and summer among the mountain streams of the Schuylkill valley by the Fish Commission. The distribution was begun resterday, when 50,000 frout try wered planted in brooks near this town, Geigertown, Cold Run. Isabella, and other places. This will be continued with other streams until the total quantity is planted. During the summer and fall larger fish including the Susquenanna salmon, rock base, and fash from the Mississippi River bottom lands, will be placed in the larger streams hereabouts, such as the Schuylkill River, the Tulpehocken, Maiden, Brandywine, and Perkiomen creeks.

The Ocean Steamship Articles

"OCEAN PASSENGER TRAFEL," by JOHN H. GOULD, beautifully illuse tot d by Sogbaum, Bacher, Woodward, Pérard, and others. The history of ocean travel, its increase in volume, the luxuries of a modern steamer, stocking the larder, observances on the various lines, the steerage, &c., are among the topics of this entertaining paper.

Articles of TRAVEL AND ADVENTURE are represented in this issue by Mr. A. J. Mee tempy-Tephson's second paper on his perilous journey to relieve Captain Notices at Starbation Comp; Robert Gordon Butler's account of the Cruise of the U. S. Steamer Thetis to the Arctic regions; and Birge Harrison's description of a Kangaroo hunt-a sport now almost as rare in Australia as a buffalo hunt on the Plains.

Of CURRENT INTEREST are Mr. Herbert Wolsh's article clearly setting forth the causes of the recent Dakato Indian Outbreak; Willard Parsons' paper on the "Fresh-Mr Junes," which he originated. The first of living Spanish poets, "Gasper Aumen de Arce," is the subject of another article. Prof. Dwight, of Harvard Medical School, discuses "What is Right-
